

Mila Oiva, University of Turku

In a Candy Store: Dreams on Interesting Methods

It is important to be aware of the emerging new methods for digital research. The presentation introduces interesting computational analysis methods that can be useful for historical research. The talk will tackle analysis of a change through text, study of digital traces of practices, using layers of different sources, and reconstructing a missing object.