

Confucius Institute 2021 Spring Teacher Training Session

Time: Saturday 13 March 2021, 10:00-12:00

Venue: Zoom

Topic: Remote teaching and guidance: challenges, best practices & coping

The pandemic has affected how we conduct teaching and has re-written the nature and rules for interaction in the teaching setting. While the remote setting has brought out innovations and created new practices in teaching that are likely here to stay, it has also brought with it some challenges.

The aim of this lecture is to enable participants to share some thoughts and experiences as well as discuss ways and best practices of dealing with challenges in teaching and guidance situations.

If you have some questions that you would like to be covered in the lecture, please feel free to send a message to the lecturer via e-mail (fanny.hedenborg\(at\)helsinki.fi) before Wednesday 10.3. Any possible questions will be handled anonymously.

Welcome!

Fanny Hedenborg works as a Study Psychologist at the University of Helsinki. Her daily work puts her in close contact with students' personal experiences and needs, leading into gaining insight into the challenges students face. Additionally, she provides consultation and teaching for staff, to help them manage challenges in teaching and guidance situations.*