

Elaine Van Melle, PhD

Senior Education Scientist – Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada
Adjunct Faculty – Department of Family Medicine, Queen’s University, Kingston, Ontario, Canada.

Key Responsibilities:

Providing advice & conducting research regarding the implementation and evaluation of competency-based education.

Education:

BSc (honours – Microbiology & Immunology): Western University

MHSc (Health Administration): University of Toronto

MEd: Queen’s University

PhD: Queen’s University

Research Interests:

Evaluating Educational Innovations

Evaluating Transformational Change

Scholarship in Health Professions Education

Developing Compassionate Healthcare Professionals

About me:

I grew up in Toronto and came to Kingston in the early 90’s. I am an avid swimmer, love to be active and always seem to be in training for my next triathlon. I have two adult children - who I love to spend time with – and two delightful French bulldogs.